

OPEN DOOR SHINING MARK FOR GARRISON BATSMEN

HOME RUNS THROUGH APERTURE BEAT THE "DOGS OF WAR."

Major Young's Dogs of War, 1st Depot Battalion, 1st C.O.R., came to grief at indoor ball by a score of 16 to 6, the winners being Lieut. Strange's Pets, 2nd Canadian Garrison Regiment.

Major Young's Dogs of War put up a very game fight, and showed class up till the eighth inning, when the Garrison came to life. Major Sinclair drove the ball through the door for a home run. With the bases full, Freeman repeated the dose, which put the game on ice for the Pets.

The batteries were as follows:—Fletcher and Clarke for the Dogs of War; Freeman and Flannigan for the Pets.

Referee, Lieut. Robert Dibble.

NYE OF WELLINGTONS DIES OF PNEUMONIA

IRON DUKES SUFFER LOSS OF SECOND PLAYER WITHIN WEEK.

Bill Nye, the popular Wellington backstop, died yesterday morning, a victim of pneumonia. A particular sad feature is that his little six-year-old daughter is now the only survivor, Nye's wife having died last Friday.

Nye contracted the disease on the day his wife was buried. For two weeks previous to her death he had been constantly at her bedside. His death makes the second break in the ranks of the Wellington baseball team within a week.

IN BASEBALL TERMS

To the baseball fan, who, by the way, is now out of a job for the duration of the war, the attitude of Germany is something like this: Two teams to twelve innings without either side scoring and, in the thirteenth, one rolls up three runs and the captain of the other team says to the umpire: "You see that it is impossible for either side to win the game; you'd better call it on account of darkness."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Jack Coombs Coaches Rice Institute Eleven

Houston, Oct. 25.—Jack Coombs, famous major league pitcher, who declared his intention to retire entirely from sports at the close of the season and devote all his time to his business in Palestine, Texas, has yielded to overtures from the athletic directors of the Rice Institute here and consented to assist in coaching the college football team.

Brantford Player Dies of Spanish Influenza

Brantford, Oct. 25.—Andy Doyle, the little auburn-haired shortfielder for the Brantford semi-professional ball team, died yesterday morning, a victim of Spanish influenza. Doyle played against the Hamilton team on two occasions during the past summer.
