NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Save for victory.

•
Our country first.

•
Your King and country need you—now.

•
The new Victory Loan has been launched on the tide of victory.

•
Many people are taking the Spanish influenza, and the remainder are talking about it.

•
It looks as if the Allies will get Turkey for Thanksgiving Day instead of waiting till Christmas.

•
Sunlight and pure air are enemies of the Spanish influenza germ, and there is no danger of an overdose.

•
There is to be no prohibition war measure in Australia. But prohibition is just as good for peace as for war time.

•
The Methodist Parliament will discuss the question of admitting women to the ministry. Who will have the last word this time?

•
Not satisfied with squeezing their patrons in overcrowded cars, the Toronto Railway Company wishes to squeeze their pocket books for higher fares.

•
The answer of President Wilson to the German peace note is a very courteous intimation that the Allies will not negotiate with burglars for the surrender of their loot.

•
The Toronto Railway appears to be angling for an order from the Ontario Railway Board to put women conductors on its cars on the ground that men enough cannot be had. Has the remedy of increased wages been tried out sufficiently?

•
Colonel and Dr. McCullough of the Provincial Health Department, who told the Mayor of Toronto that "the general impression in the city is that he is a joke," was not only guilty of impertinence, for which the Provincial Secretary should discipline him, but of trifling with the eternal verities. The Mayor of Toronto is no joke.

•
"As requested by Edmund Bristol, K.C., M.P., I have much pleasure in placing your name on the patronage list of this department," wrote Sir Sam Hughes to a Toronto firm making war supplies more than a year after the war began. The war patronage list was abolished only when it became a public scandal, and not through any prickings of conscience at headquarters.
