
POLICE FIRST AID TEAM EXAMINED

Lieut.-Col. Birdwhistle of St. John's Ambulance Corps Did Judging

The First Aid team selected from the Toronto Police Force to compete for the Lord Shaughnessy Shield was judged yesterday afternoon in the Women's Court room at the City Hall. The team consisted of five men, and was in charge of Patrol Sergeant Reeves, who acted as Captain, owing to the illness of Constable Parris, who is confined to his bed with Spanish influenza.

The competition is open to the police departments throughout the Dominion, and is conducted by the St. John's Ambulance Corps. Lt.-Col. R. J. Birdwhistle, Secretary of the Canadian branch of the corps, arrived in the city from Ottawa yesterday to judge the men. The men were examined individually in first aid to the injured. They were also asked to give an exhibition of how they would render aid to different accidents which they would most likely be called to attend in the course of police duty.

The winning teams of the different Provinces will compete for a silver cup to be donated next year. The following are members of the Toronto team: P. C. Martin, (546); P. C. Beavin, (398); P. C. Young, (289); P. C. Jackson, (519), and P. C. Small, (325).

West End Sunday School Workers Meet

The western division of the Toronto graded union for Sunday school workers held its first regular meeting of this season in College Street Presbyterian Church last night. The different departments of the work, beginners, primary, junior, the girls and boys of "teen" age, and the older "folks," were dealt with in detail.

Mrs. C. M. Hincks spoke on "The Individual Scholar." A thrillingly vivid thanksgiving story was told by Miss B. C. Johnston. Rev. M. C. McLean of the Memorial Institute addressed the "teen" age girl workers on "Secrets of Efficiency—Consecration Plus Preparation." The officers were delighted with the success of their first meeting of the series in the west end.
