

"ADMIRAL DOT" DYING

The Globe (1844-1936); Oct 26, 1918; ProQuest Historical Newspapers: The Globe and Mail
pg. 4

"ADMIRAL DOT" DYING.

Noted Midget Who Traveled With Barnum Victim of "Flu."

(Special Despatch to The Globe.)

Mount Vernon, N.Y., Oct. 25.--

"Admiral Dot," the midget, whose right name is Leopold Kahn, is in a dying condition in the White Plains Hospital from pneumonia following an attack of Spanish influenza. Admiral Dot, known the world over as one of the first midgets to travel with P. T. Barnum, and who was a personal friend of the great showman, was connected with the circus business for nearly twenty-five years. He traveled all over the world with Barnum's circus until he finally retired to private life. He went to White Plains twenty-four years ago and opened a big hotel which was the headquarters for many circus people. Admiral Dot is fifty-nine years old.

The Admiral's daughter, Mrs. Allen M. Golden, died in the White plains Hospital last night from pneumonia, aged twenty-five years.